DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the request for reconsideration filed 30 September 2005.

Specification

The amendment filed 22 February 2005 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132 because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132 states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: The associated capacitor (first-stage capacitor) having a higher frequency response than that of at least one of the other capacitors of the subsequent stages Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 22-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The associated capacitor (first-stage capacitor) having a higher frequency response than that of at least one of the other capacitors of the subsequent stages is not disclosed in the specification nor the drawings and is considered new matter. The specification does not disclose how the frequency is formed in regards to the capacitor and the voltages that are being applied.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 22-26 and 29-31, as far as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Applicant's Prior Art (Figures 1 and 4).

Applicant's Prior Art (Figures 1 and 4) discloses a driver for driving a load with a secondary power supply voltage (V_o (15V)) obtained by stepping a primary supply voltage level (V_{cc} (3V)) using a charge pump circuit (11) that has a multiplicity of stages ($C1-C_n$), each of the stages including a switching element (Sw (Fig. 4)) and a capacitor (C), wherein an associated capacitor (first-stage capacitor) ($C1$) of the first stage is energized by the one voltage (3V) impressed on the capacitors of the multiplicity of stages that is closest to the value of the primary supply voltage level, where the primary supply level comprises the primary power supply voltage level and where the primary supply voltage is stepped up to provide the secondary power supply voltage and each of the stages is stepped up stage (Fig. 4 (the voltage is stepped up)) and where the associate capacitor (first-stage capacitor) has a lower internal resistance than the capacitors of the subsequent stages.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 30 September 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments do not correct the deficiencies of the 112 1st rejection and the rejection to the specification referring to the new matters. The rejection was based on the added matters of the limitation "associated capacitor having a higher frequency response than that of at least one of the other said capacitors of the subsequent stages". The arguments that the applicants disclosed do not speak of this limitation and the pages in which are being referenced to do not refer to the frequency but to the capacitance. Therefore the response does not clear up the objections and rejections so therefore the rejections stand.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 2822

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
